

Simple choices

Offering a child a choice creates a great opportunity for communication.

It allows children to make their own decisions even if they have limited spoken language.

Use choice boards containing a selection of photos, images (e.g. Google), or symbols, that a child can point to.

Choice-making can also be verbal. Offer a child a choice in as many situations as possible, e.g. “would you like Cornflakes or Weetabix ?”

